Catch a Rising Star at Rasselas Jazz Club
Monday Open Mic Night Gives Rise to SF Talent

Every Monday night at 8 pm, Rasselas Jazz Club opens its mic' to give aspiring performers the chance to strut their stuff before a live audience. Hosted and backed by Dee Spencer on piano and her accompanists on drum and guitar, the talented Trio cater to every music genre, not just jazz. To perform, just bring your sheet music.

As thrilling as it is for performers to have such a supportive opportunity, it also holds true for the audience who might just catch an act on its way to stardom. Among the talent is Ledisi, the two-time Grammy Award R nominee. Other talent that has performed at Rasselas Open Mic nights include world-renowned jazz saxophonist John Andy, Pete Escovedo, who went on to be hired by Santana and now tours nationally; and Kim Nally, who is often compared to Billie Holiday and has won numerous awards, including "Best Jazz Diva" by 7X7 Magazine.

So, what are you waiting for? Come catch a rising star – it'll be like saying you saw the Beatles play in Hamburg! Best of all, it's free.

Rasselas Jazz Club is located at 1534 Fillmore Street in the Fillmore District, San Francisco's live music district. Rasselas offers a variety live music seven nights a week with a full bar and Ethiopian cuisine. For information, call 415/415.346.8696 or visit www.rasselas.com.
